contemporary anthropology is done in a world where social and digital media are playing an increasingly significant role where anthropological and arts practices are often intertwined in museum and public intervention contexts and where anthropologists are encouraged to engage with mass media because anthropologists are often expected and inspired to ensure their work engages with public issues these opportunities to disseminate work in new ways and to new publics simultaneously create challenges as anthropologists move their practice into unfamiliar collaborative domains and expose their research to new forms of scrutiny in this volume contributors question whether a fresh public anthropology is emerging through these new practices almost a decade ago in 2004 noted anthropologist louise lamphere observed a sea change in anthropology with the interests of applied practicing and public interest anthropologists converging around the themes of increased collaborations and partnerships outreach to the public and efforts to influence policy the sea change was concretized in anthropology s flagship journal american anthropologist with the 2010 inauguration of the public anthropology reviews section public anthropology arguably the convergence that lamphere foretold represents an expansion of the value and relevance of anthropology as well as a shift in the production and dissemination of knowledge furthermore as nancy scheper hughes articulated in 2009 public anthropology involves not only responding to public issues but making public issues anthropologists working in the federal sector such as the veterans administration va realize the challenges and rewards of practicing public anthropology on a daily basis the movement of anthropologists into the largest integrated health care system in the u s exemplifies the sea change toward public anthropology particularly with regard to the contributions our discipline can make to improving health care this volume addresses three key aspects of the contributors voices within a growing anthropology in of for the va first we describe pathways and approaches to practicing anthropology in the va second we characterize anthropological contributions to veteran empowerment efforts finally we illustrate how anthropology informs current dialogues and policies related to veterans at the margins of health and social services within and across these themes issues of praxis ethics action and service are highlighted collectively the contributors resonate with and exemplify scheper hughes s contention that public anthropology is a precious right and a privilege is anthropology relevant to our lives today does anthropology have anything to contribute in the coming time how are anthroplogists responding to the post colonial post modernist world leading anthroplogists attempt to answer these questions identifying and exploring key issues where anthropology connects with the problems of the contemporary scene
